HOW TO SOLVE THE CLIMATE EMERGENCY

Suffolk New College - Saturday 12th March

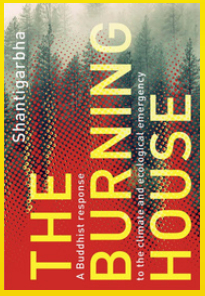
How can we save the planet whilst maintaining the principle of non-violence and compassion for all?

Is this even possible when so many people seem intent on carrying on with lifestyles that damage the environment?

ipswich buddhist centre

A workshop for under 30s
presented by Ipswich Young Buddhists

Booking: www.ipswichbuddhistcentre/climateemergency



Is force the only answer when time seems to be running out?

Many of us are deeply worried about Climate Change but feel powerless to make a real difference in a world where not everyone shares our concerns. Some of us are so angry that we feel direct, disruptive action is the only way to get countries, industries and individuals to change their ways.

Join our very special guest, Shantigarbha, for a day workshop on how we can use Buddhist teachings to take action that will transform ourselves – and those around us – in a way that makes a real, immediate difference to the Climate Emergency.

Shantigarbha is a renowned Buddhist Activist, Teacher and Nonviolent Communication mediator who recently attended the COP26 summit in Glasgow.

The day will include talks, meditations and group discussions. Tickets are £20 for the day, including a delicious vegan lunch. Booking essential.

100% recycled paper

Booking: www.ipswichbuddhistcentre/climateemergency