Introduction

Triratna is a worldwide network of friends in the Buddhist life. This is for many of us a source of great richness, support and strength. However, it also carries a risk that we may fail to notice, question or act on behaviours of concern, out of naivety, loyalty to friends or lack of awareness, or an assumption that “it couldn’t happen here” or “they would never do a thing like that.”

This policy is an expression of the first ethical precept taught by the Buddha: to protect living beings from harm. It is based on law and good practice in our jurisdiction.

The purpose of this policy

This policy is for Friends, Mitras and Order members involved in Ipswich Buddhist Centre activities (and those of any outreach groups run by this charity) as employees, volunteers, leaders or teachers.

It aims to provide

- Protection for all adults attending Ipswich Buddhist Centre activities, including those who may be at risk of harm or have care and support needs, and
- Protection for Friends, Mitras and Order members working with them.

It sets out

- information and practices contributing to the prevention of harm to adults.
- what to do if harm is suspected.

Our values

As trustees of the Ipswich Buddhist Centre we wish all adults who come into contact with our charity in any way to flourish through their engagement with the Buddha, Dharma and Sangha.

We recognise an ethical duty to prevent or address harm to all adults in the course of our activities, including adults who may be at risk of harm or have care and support needs as set out by the Charity Commission in its latest guidance: <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/safeguarding-duties-for-charities-trustees>

The types of harm we have a duty to prevent and address are listed in Appendix I; they apply by law to the care of adults who are deemed formally vulnerable or 'at risk'. However this list also provides a guide as to the types of harm we must be alert to prevent or address in the case of all adults.

We recognise that people with mental illness or addiction may attend and take part in the life of our Sangha.

The trustees of the Ipswich Buddhist Centre recognise their responsibility to Safeguard adults, including those who may be at risk of harm or have care and support needs visiting or involved in Ipswich Buddhist Centre activities, as set out by the Charity Commission in its latest guidance: <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/safeguarding-duties-for-charity-trustees>

Ariyanivata and Carumani are our Safeguarding officers. They are responsible for co-ordinating the protection of children and adults at the Ipswich Buddhist Centre (See also our Safeguarding Adults policy.)

Ariyanivata and Carumani are our Safeguarding trustees. They are responsible for making sure Safeguarding is taken seriously by the trustees and appears regularly on their agendas, ensuring the trustees comply with their Safeguarding obligations as required by the Charity Commission.

Who is an adult?

For the purposes of this policy an "adult" is a person who has passed their 18th birthday regardless of the legal age of majority in any jurisdiction.

Who is an adult who are vulnerable or "at risk"?

The UK Care Act 2014 defines such a person as "any person who is aged 18 years or over and at risk of abuse or neglect because of their needs for care and or support"; i.e., they need care and support (whether or not the local authority is meeting any of those needs); and is experiencing, or at risk of, abuse or neglect; and as a result of those care and support needs, is unable to protect themselves from either the risk of, or the experience of, abuse or neglect".

Adults who may be formally 'at risk' may also include those who

- have dementia
- have learning disabilities
- have mental health problems
- have drug, alcohol or substance dependency
- have physical or sensory disabilities
- have been bereaved, suffered grief and loss
- through age or illness are dependent on other people to help them
- live with domestic abuse

- are homeless
- are refugees or asylum seekers or
- for any reason may be considered not to have 'mental capacity'. (See below.)

Whether or not a person is “vulnerable” or “at risk” in these cases will vary according to circumstances, and it should be noted that a person with a physical disability is not necessarily at risk, though they could be. Each case must be judged on its own merits.

Definitions of abuse in adults

See appendix 1.

Signs of abuse in adults

See appendix 2.

What is ‘mental capacity’?

See appendix 3.

Vulnerability can be variable

Vulnerability and resilience can vary throughout a person’s life. Many people who are generally emotionally and psychologically stable in most aspects of their lives and would not be formally classified as vulnerable or ‘at risk’ may on occasion find themselves in a more vulnerable position, e.g. after a bereavement, serious illness, or breakdown of a relationship. They may be new to the practice of meditation and their practice may make them more sensitive.

For example, we will bear in mind that a person who is emotionally vulnerable for any reason may not be able to make balanced decisions regarding giving money or becoming more involved with Triratna, or entering into intimate relationships, whether friendship or relationships which are more romantic or sexual in nature. We will take great care to help each other avoid exploiting people in such everyday situations of vulnerability.

Protecting those with psychological disorders

We are aware that those attending our centre and activities include adults experiencing psychological disorders ranging from mild to severe.

We recognise that as Buddhists we do not have the professional skills to diagnose or help people with psychological disorders and that they may not be helped solely by the kindness of Buddhists. In such cases we may need to advise them to seek professional help.

We are aware that for people with serious psychological disorders traditional Buddhist practices involving recognition of the illusion of self could be dangerous. We may need to encourage them in traditional Buddhist practices involving the calming of body and mind, or to avoid meditation – altogether, or during periods of relapse.

Where we believe a person to be at risk of self-harm or suicide we will encourage them to contact their GP, mental health team or go to the accident and emergency department of their local hospital. If necessary we will make contact on their behalf, with their permission.

We will consult with Triratna’s ECA Safeguarding Team if necessary: safeguarding@triratna.community

#Where we consider there is immediate danger of a person harming themselves or others we will contact emergency services, without their permission if necessary.

Protecting those with psychological disorders - online

Buddhism and meditation are increasingly taught using online media. In person, it is relatively easy to notice where a person may have compromised mental health; online it is much more difficult.

We recognise that among those seeking individual online guidance from members of the Triratna Buddhist Order there may be some reporting meditation experiences which are an indication of serious psychological disorder.

In engaging in individual guidance online by email, blog, social media or text we will take great care at the start to establish with local Order members the identity, location and suitability of the participant, and which local Order members are available locally to support them in person and gaining permission to contact those Order members if we believe they are at risk. (This does not apply where the participant is an Order member and therefore well known to us.)

(Responding to children online See the Ipswich Buddhist Centre Child protection policy 2022.)

DBS checks /security check

If in any doubt about the requirements for DBS checks our Safeguarding officer will check with external Safeguarding experts such as Thirtyone:eight (www.thirtyoneeight.org) to ensure that anyone required to have a DBS check has been checked, and to the correct level. Thirtyone:eight also provide an online DBS checking service.

We understand that

A) the Charity Commission states that wherever there is a legal entitlement to a DBS check in respect of a trustee, employer or volunteer, a DBS check should be carried out. In detail, this means that

B) anyone employed by or volunteering for our charity in any capacity is eligible for a Basic DBS check. We are free to request these of any such person, but where a charity has a great many volunteers and staff and it is impracticable to DBS check all of them we must be able to demonstrate that for those who are unchecked other measures are in place to ensure the safety of all beneficiaries. This means we may decide to focus on obtaining Basic checks for those with responsibilities which render them likely to be seen by others as holding some degree of authority; for example:

- our chair and trustees
- those working with our charity's money and finances
- our safeguarding officers
- those who teach or lead and those who support them

Where any volunteer or staff member is not DBS checked we must be able to demonstrate that they

- are supervised by a person who is DBS checked
- have read the charity's Safeguarding policies and Child Protection code of contact, had an opportunity to discuss them with the Safeguarding officer and have signed a document recording that they have read and agree to abide by them.

C) The core team (Mitrans or Order members, paid or voluntary) directly responsible for any Ipswich Buddhist Centre activity or event specifically intended and advertised for adults likely to be more vulnerable to influence, exploitation or mistreatment can and therefore must have an Enhanced DBS check with a check of Barred Registers.

D) DBS checks for addiction recovery meetings DBS checks may be required for those leading 8-Step meetings or other recovery programmes which are not part of the 12-Step Movement, and which are run as part of our programme of activities.

Where those running an activity can, and therefore must, have DBS checks, we will require anyone helping with such activities (paid or voluntary) who has not been DBS checked to be supervised at all times by someone who is DBS checked.

DBS checks are not required for those running general activities which adults with mental health difficulties or in addiction recovery (for example) may happen to attend.

E) DBS certificates apply to roles rather than persons and are not transferable from another role elsewhere.

F) It is regarded as good practice that any DBS certificate should be less than three years old.

Managing those who pose a risk to others

There may be cases where it is known that a person attending our activities is likely to pose a risk to others (for example, a person who is known to have a previous criminal conviction for sexual or other violent offences, who is on the UK Sex Offender Register, or someone who is under investigation for possible sexual or other violent offences).

Such a person will be asked by the Safeguarding officer to agree a behaviour contract setting out the terms of their continued participation in Ipswich Buddhist Centre activities within agreed boundaries and based on a risk assessment carried out by an Order member with professional experience in risk assessment. If our Safeguarding officer is not qualified to do this we will ask for help from the ECA Safeguarding team or another professionally qualified Order member. (See the document 'Managing those who pose a risk 2022'.)

Where it is felt that the charity does not have the resources to manage this relationship safely, we reserve the right to ask the person not to attend our activities.

Where necessary we will consult the ECA Safeguarding team: safeguarding@triratna.community.

Lettings/hireouts

Our charity allows its premises for 8-Step Recovery meeting which is not an activity of our charity even if it is run by a member of our sangha or members of our sangha take part: We understand that there is joint responsibility on our charity and those using our premises for the Safeguarding of children and adults taking part in such activities, but that our trustees bear ultimate responsibility for the Safeguarding in all activities which take place on our premises. This includes self-organised meetings of sangha members which are not seen as activities run by our charity; eg chapter meetings and GFR meetings.

Therefore we will ask any organisation or individual using our premises to sign an agreement which says they have read our Safeguarding policies and agree to abide by them, or that they have shown us their own Safeguarding policy, in which case their policy should be compatible with our own policy and should be written to an equal or higher standard.

What is 'abuse'?

'Abuse' is not a legal term, but covers a number of ways in which a person may be deliberately harmed (legally or illegally), usually by someone who is in a position of power, trust or authority over them, or who may be perceived by that person to be in a position of power, trust or authority over them; for example by a Friend, Mitra or Order member who is helping to run Ipswich Buddhist Centre activities for those newer to such activities. The harm may be physical, psychological or emotional, or it may exploit the vulnerability of the person in more subtle ways.

However, harm can also occur less consciously, through naivety, idealism or lack of awareness.

Types of abuse

See Appendix 1.

Signs of abuse

See Appendix 2.

If you have a concern

All allegations or suspicions should be taken seriously and reported to one of our Safeguarding officers: Ariyanivata jscatsea@protonmail.com or Carumani dh.carumani@protonmail.com

If person over 18 alleges abuse

We understand that we need to

- stay calm.
- listen patiently.
- reassure the person they are doing the right thing by speaking up.
- clarify issues of confidentiality early on. We will make it clear we may have to discuss their concerns with others, on a strictly need-to-know basis, if at all possible with their permission. (See below.)
- explain what we are going to do.
- write a factual account of what we have seen and heard, immediately.

We will do our best to avoid

- appearing shocked, horrified, disgusted or angry.
- pressing the individual for details.
- making comments or judgments other than to show concern. Our responsibility is to take them seriously, not to decide whether what they are saying is true.
- promising to keep secrets.
- confronting any alleged perpetrator.
- risking contaminating the evidence by investigating matters ourselves.

What we will do next

- We understand that our first concern must be the safety and well-being of this person and that we must not be distracted from this by loyalty to the person who has been accused or a desire to maintain the good name of Triratna or our charity.
- If the person receiving the disclosure is not our Safeguarding officer, they must tell the Safeguarding officer only, who will co-ordinate the handling of the matter on behalf of the charity's trustees. However, if the Safeguarding officer is not immediately available the matter should be communicated to the Chair of the charity, or the Safeguarding trustee.
- We understand that every person has a legal right to privacy under the International Convention on Human Rights and data protection legislation; therefore if possible we need to get the person's consent to share the information they have given us, within the limits described here and below.
- If the adult alleging abuse is not formally vulnerable or 'at risk' and their complaint may be criminal, it is up to them to report it to the police if they wish to; though we will offer them help and support to do this.
- If the person is formally vulnerable or 'at risk' we may report on their behalf, though with their permission if possible.
- Whether or not formally vulnerable or 'at risk', if the person may be in immediate danger the Safeguarding officer, Chair, Safeguarding trustee or person receiving the disclosure will phone social services or police straight away. A telephone referral will be confirmed in writing within 24 hours.

If necessary, our Safeguarding officer will contact Triratna's ECA Safeguarding team for advice: safeguarding@triratna.community

- It may be necessary, and therefore legally 'reasonable', to pass on information without the adults consent if they may be at immediate risk of harm once they leave your company and/or a crime has been or is about to be committed also if what is disclosed indicates that there is also a risk of harm to a child
- The person receiving the disclosure will make detailed factual notes about the conversation/concern/incident as soon as possible, including time, date and location, and pass them to the charity's Safeguarding officer. (See 'Secure, confidential record-keeping' below.) As far as possible what the person has said should be recorded in their own words, as these could be used in court.
- We understand that no sangha member should attempt to investigate a criminal allegation, that this is the job of the police and that to attempt this could prejudice a court case and put the parties in danger.

Finally, we may need to make external reports

- In England and Wales we may need to make a Serious Incident Report to the Charity Commission: <https://www.gov.uk/guidance/how-to-report-a-serious-incident-in-your-charity>.
- We will report to our insurers any situation or incident that we consider might lead to a claim under our insurance policy.

If necessary we will consult the ECA Safeguarding team for guidance on this: safeguarding@triratna.community.

Who else needs to know?

We understand that confidentiality, sharing information only on a need-to-know basis, is very important. Under data protection legislation nobody has a right to know about a case – except, for Safeguarding purposes, those in a position to prevent further harm, and our Chair, who holds ultimate responsibility for the governance of the charity. For example, where there is a criminal allegation against a Mitra it could be justifiable for the Safeguarding officer, Safeguarding trustee, Chair and Mitra convenor to know about it.

This is not a matter of concealment but is intended to protect all concerned from further harm. It will also protect our sangha from fear, rumour and disharmony which will make it much harder to deal with the matter effectively without causing further harm.

Secure, confidential record-keeping

We understand our responsibility for secure and careful record-keeping. Our Safeguarding officer will keep a detailed log of all Safeguarding-related incidents as well as conversations, actions and the reasoning behind them. These should not be kept on any computer, but on an external hard drive or memory stick. To guard against loss in case the files, hard drive or memory stick become corrupted these will be backed up to another hard drive or memory stick and/or printed off. Any memory sticks, hard drives and paper copies will be stored in a locked cabinet, box or drawer accessible only to the Safeguarding officer and one or two others approved by our trustees.

We also understand that under data protection law we need to word our records in a form we would be happy for the subjects to read if they ask to, as is their legal right. This means notes should be factual and respectful, free of interpretations and value-judgements.

Keeping confidential records

We understand that because many abuse cases come to light 30 or more years later we should keep our records for up to 50 years. This is important in order to address historical cases effectively but also for insurance purposes.

If our charity closes down, we will give our records to another Triratna Buddhist centre/charity to keep with their own confidential Safeguarding logs.

Reviewing our policies annually

This document was adopted by the trustees of the Ipswich Buddhist Centre on [8 December 2022] and will be reviewed and updated by the Safeguarding officer and trustees of the Ipswich Buddhist Centre , on or before [8 December 2023].

Appendix I

Definitions of abuse in adults

In the UK we have a legal duty to prevent or address the following types of harm to adult who may be vulnerable or 'at risk'.

The list below also provides a guide as to the types of harm we should be alert to prevent or address in the case of all adults , as does the list in this link, from the Charity commission for England and Wales

<https://www.gov.uk/guidance/safeguarding-duties-for-charity-trustees>

As defined in the UK Care Act 2014, Safeguarding duties apply to an adult who is defined as vulnerable or 'at risk' because they

- has need for care and support (whether or not the local authority is meeting any of those needs) and;
- is experiencing, or at risk of, abuse or neglect; and
- as a result of those care and support needs is unable to protect themselves from either the risk of, or the experience of abuse or neglect.

Physical abuse – including assault, hitting, slapping, pushing, misuse of medication, restraint or inappropriate physical sanctions.

Domestic violence – including psychological, physical, sexual, financial, emotional abuse; so called ‘honour-based’ violence.

Sexual abuse – including rape, indecent exposure, sexual harassment, inappropriate looking or touching, sexual teasing or innuendo, sexual photography, subjection to pornography or witnessing sexual acts, indecent exposure and sexual assault or sexual acts to which the adult has not consented or was pressured into consenting.

Psychological abuse – including emotional abuse, threats of harm or abandonment, deprivation of contact, humiliation, blaming, controlling, intimidation, coercion, harassment, verbal abuse, cyber bullying, isolation or unreasonable and unjustified withdrawal of services or supportive networks.

Financial or material abuse – including theft, fraud, internet scamming, coercion in relation to an adult’s financial affairs or arrangements, including in connection with wills, property, inheritance or financial transactions, or the misuse or misappropriation of property, possessions or benefits.

Modern slavery – encompasses slavery, human trafficking, forced labour and domestic servitude. Traffickers and slave masters use whatever means they have at their disposal to coerce, deceive and force individuals into a life of abuse, servitude and inhumane treatment.

Discriminatory abuse – including forms of harassment, slurs or similar treatment; because of race, gender and gender identity, age, disability, sexual orientation or religion.

Organisational abuse – including neglect and poor care practice within an Institution or specific care setting such as a hospital or care home, for example, or in relation to care provided in one’s own home. This may range from one off incidents to on-going ill-treatment. It can be through neglect or poor professional practice as a result of the structure, policies, processes and practices within an organisation.

Neglect and acts of omission – including ignoring medical, emotional or physical care needs, failure to provide access to appropriate health, care and support or educational services, the withholding of the necessities of life, such as medication, adequate nutrition and heating.

Self-neglect – this covers a wide range of behaviour neglecting to care for one’s personal hygiene, health or surroundings and includes behaviour such as hoarding. Incidents of abuse may be one-off or multiple, and affect one person or more.

Appendix 2

Signs of abuse in adults

Physical abuse

- History of unexplained falls, fractures, bruises, burns, minor injuries.
- Signs of under or over use of medication and/or medical problems left unattended.

- Person is dressed inappropriately for the weather conditions
- Dirt, urine or faecal smells
- Home environment does not meet basic needs (for example heating or lighting)
- Depression

Appendix 3

What is ‘mental capacity’?

Whether a person has mental capacity is a matter of specialist assessment by social and mental health services. However, it may be useful to know something about it.

Mental capacity is the ability to make a particular decision. An adult may be at risk if they are unable to make a decision due to illness, disability, poor mental health, dementia, a learning disability or something else that may impair their judgment.

A person may be deemed to be ‘without capacity’ if they cannot:

- understand a decision
- retain information
- weigh up information
- communicate their decision

About matters such as

- finance
- social care
- medical treatment
